

The most musical renditions I've come across in years... I've found myself not only returning to it time and time again, but also recommending it to friends. It's beautiful. What a delight!

- William Duckworth, Time Curve Blog

jon & lynn

WINNER- BAND OF THE MONTH
INDIE BANDS BLOG

It takes a singer with a voice that can hold up under intense attention and a bass player creative enough to lend the kind of support that would normally fall on the shoulders of a pianist or guitarist, players who have a lot more arrows in their quivers...Jon Burr and Lynn Stein successfully tread that musical path...with élan...

- Joe Lang, Journal of the New Jersey Jazz Society

... a virtuoso on Bass, ...a stunning singer... With a tone as clear as a bell, and very precise diction, she brings new life to a wide array of old chestnuts (and two originals) backed by a... witty ... melodic .. minimalist ... always steady upright bass. This works, folks!

- Chuck Bolger, Jazz or Something Like It

... I wondered whether the stripped back bass and vocal could be sustained over an LP. The short answer is, shame it is only an 16 track LP. With a running time of just over 50 minutes, Jon and Lynn create a triumphant release with their minimalist instrumentation and soaring vocal.

- Tim Whale, Indie Bands Blog

Appearing LIVE !

Where:

When:

Check them out at www.jonandlynn.net